CUSTOMIZE YOUR INTERIOR:

Drywall, Trim and Painting Options

In our Spring Newsletter, we highlighted the options, process, and things to know about making your plumbing selections during a new home build or renovation. In this issue, we will give an overview of drywall, trim, and painting options for your project.

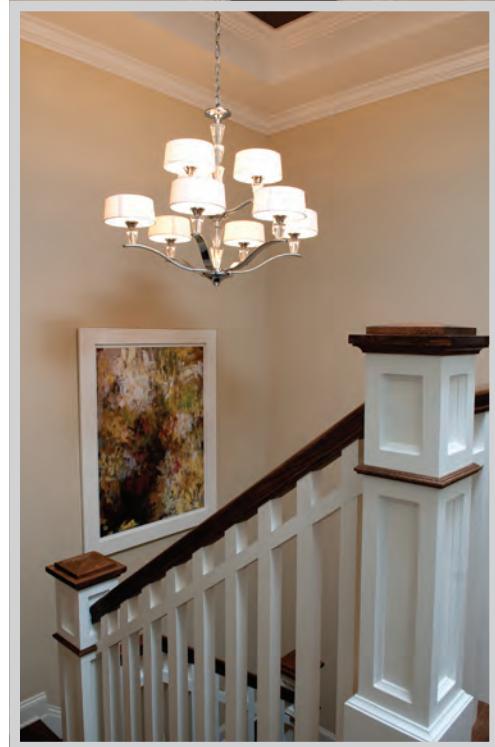

After framing, mechanical rough-ins, and insulation are complete on your new home or addition project, the interior begins to take shape. Next, drywall gets hung and finished, trim is installed, and painting begins. These three items go a long way in determining the look and feel of your interior spaces. Here are some things to consider for each stage:

Drywall: This is the product that covers your framing and creates your wall space. You may not think there is much customizing when it comes to drywall, however, one major design option in drywall is the type of corners you prefer. Drywall corner beads are available in a rounded option as opposed to just a 90 degree corner. This provides a softer, more gentle look and is usually a fairly minor cost upgrade. Some still prefer the clean, classic look of the standard 90 degree corner.

Trim: This is the “catch all” term that refers to the casings that frame your windows and doors, the baseboard that covers the bottom of the wall where it meets the floor, and any other specialty moldings you may want to include in your home (crown molding, chair rail, wainscoting, coffered ceiling, etc.) There are many different trim styles available. Popular styles include colonial trim, or a simple flat trim, which is complimentary to a craftsman style home. Interior doors, fireplace mantles, and stair details (handrails, newel posts, and pickets) are also items that can customize a home and are all part of your interior trim selections. Take a look at the pictures for some inspiration.

Paint: When the trim work has been completed, painting walls & trim is the next step in our process. Choosing colors to highlight specific rooms is often an upgrade our customers select. Kitchen and dining areas, bathrooms, and bedrooms are all good choices for adding color in the entire room, or just an accent wall. There are also many types of paint available. We typically recommend a flat paint for ease of touch up. Although not considered a “scrubbable” paint like an eggshell finish, flat paint covers small imperfections characteristic of drywall, along with the ease of touch up, making it a more affordable option. For those concerned about chemical emissions from paint, we also offer a Zero VOC option at a reasonable upgrade.

THANKSGIVING DECORATING IDEA: Gratitude Tree

This Thanksgiving Season as you reflect on your blessings, consider this fun activity for the whole family – making a “Gratitude Tree”. First you gather some small sticks, then find a decorative vase to place them in. Last, you simply list some things you are thankful for on small pieces of paper and hang them on your “tree”. Check out some of these pictures for ideas! With a little creativity you can make a nice piece of thanksgiving décor to brighten up your home.
